

What information will go back to my supervisor and department or division after my exam?

- Your supervisor and dept./div. will receive no medical information about you. This is considered confidential.
- Your supervisor will be notified if OMC was unable to clear you for any of your required medical surveillance or certification examinations. Information on your completion of mandatory medical surveillance/certifications is also available on the Training Database (<http://training.bnl.gov>).
- If you had a mandatory exam or if you had a voluntary exam and your supervisor requested that OMC issue a Physical Limitations Form (PLF), then a completed PLF is sent to your supervisor, ES&H Coordinator and dept./div. manager. This form provides information on any permanent physical limitations potentially impacting your job.
- If, as a result of the exam and testing, the OMC physician or practitioner finds any medical problems that pose a serious safety risk for you or your co-workers, then the physician or practitioner must notify your supervisor of these concerns. This will be done verbally and through either a PLF (if issued) or through a memo (if no PLF was requested)
